

Crime, liquor made headlines in roaring '20s

Bloomington readers of the Sunday Star in the roaring '20s opened their newspapers one day to learn the details of a dramatic robbery and kidnapping only a block and a half from the courthouse.

In a n otherwise humdrum week, the story was bound to sell

Looking back

2-17-42
By Rose McIlveen

newspapers, and the Star capitalized on it.

At the end of the day, Henry Cathcart, manager of (Back page, col. 4, this sec.)