some students. Explained the newspaper, "As the train pulled out, they puffed uptown from all directions but could not make it. Several went up on the regular trains.

The IU-Purdue "special" was no ordinary train. According to the Telephone it was equipped with a diner and sleepers and was reputed to be the "finest football train ever run in the state." Round-trip tickets were $1.50.

The newspaper reported that "For the Indiana-Purdue game every man on the Indiana eleven is in splendid shape for the game with the exception of King, who is afflicted with a number of boils, and Kimble, who is entertaining a 'charley horse.' "

Next week: The game.
