

Down on the levee

---

Levee, from page A1

---

took refuge, when he saw Stewart returning. Charles Shaw, the proprietor, expected a mere fist fight and told Ridley to sit down and "keep quiet and that he (Shaw) would stop any trouble."

Meanwhile, Stewart re-entered the Campbell Restaurant and grabbed a gun belonging to Charlie Robinson, an employee.

With gun in hand, Stewart headed for the Shaw Billiard Parlor.

Next week: A cloud of witnesses.